

NERCT 2014 postponed indefinitely due to Ebola Concerns

It is with regret that the organizers of NERCT have decided to postpone the 2014 event indefinitely. This decision was made after taking into account the current situation of the Ebola epidemic in West Africa and Nigeria, as well as the concerns expressed by our various partners about the epidemic.

We understand the risks for all those that wish to attend the event and for those responsible for the excellence of NERCT, and therefore believe this is the right course of action.

If anything, the Ebola epidemic and the rise of Boko Haram as a national threat to Nigeria's security have only confirmed the need for NERCT, where practitioners and decision makers can come together to present solutions that will mitigate these problems.

We can only say at this time that NERCT will be held again soon and we wish to thank all those that worked hard in organizing the 2014 event, notably Mr Uzoma I. Kingsley, for his untiring efforts.